KRUP, MURPHY FLOATER, NOW ON WAY TO 'FRISCO?

Put on Train by Two Men, Declare Jersey City Detectives.

HE JUMPED $5,000 BAIL.

Dillon and Gaffney Called Before Grand Jury This Afternoon.

A man believed to have been John Krup, the alleged forger of Charles F. Murphy's signature, who managed to elude Morgan deputies yesterday after he had been released on bail and make his escape from the city, was placed on board a Baltimore and Ohio train in Jersey City last night by two men. He had a ticket to San Francisco.

The man was very drunk, and the two who had him in charge were very particular about him. When some objection was made to his being placed on the train they put him head under a faucet and sobered him up as much as possible.

The ticket to San Francisco was purchased by the three men of the New York side of the Twenty-third street ferry. Detective Leverett, of Jersey City, who saw the three men, says that one of them, a tall, light-haired fellow, who said his name was Lutz, told him the drunken man was a race-track man being sent away because he drank too much. Leverett said the drunken man answered the description of Krup.

When the train reached Washington to-day the police searched it. There were a lot of immigrants on the train and it is believed the man mingled with them and escaped. The conductor and porter of the train recognized the man sought by the description, but could not find him, although certain that he was on board when the train reached Washington.

Dillon Appears Worried.

Charles P. Dillon, who is a friend of Charles F. Murphy and who was the last person with Krup, was up early to-day at his home, No. 49 East Seventeenth street. Dillon is a lawyer, has been a member of the Assembly three times and has been accused of assisting Krup to escape by the Morgan deputies release on bail. Dillon seemed very worried to-day. This question was put to him by an Evening World reporter:

"A report is abroad that you were with your client late last night when he took a train for the West. Is this true?"

"During the ten years that I have practiced law," answered Dillon, "I have always instructed my clients not to talk for publication outside of the courtroom. It is a rule that I also follow."

Abraham Levy said to-day:

"Krup and Dillon left this office together and went down by the regular passenger elevator. The last thing I said to Krup as he left was: 'Now, you be sure and be in court at 2 o'clock.' Dillon also informs me that the Morgan men were not eluded at all, but followed Krup and himself to the elevated station, boarded the same train with them and sat opposite them all the way to Fourteenth street."

"There is one explanation of Krup's flight and that is that last Friday, while he was out on bail Morgan men kidnapped him, took him over to Brooklyn and put him through the third degree. They scared him so that I think he probably skipped for fear of this happening again. I had intended to take this very matter before the Grand Jury."

"We are doing everything in our power to try and find Krup, but have got no trace of him. Incidentally I do not see why this law firm is any more responsible for Krup's escape than David Dudley Field, Judge Constock and John Root were for the escape of John Dillinger."

Every effort is now being made by Attorney-General Storer to find out who paid the $5,000 cash bail for Krup. So far it has been unsuccessful.

Attorney-General Storer went before the Grand Jury to-day, and it is known that he presented the Krup case to that body. Lawyer Dillon was not allowed to go until Monday. If he does not answer the questions put to him before the Grand Jury and is not allowed to go until Monday, it is believed that his case will be taken before the Court.

Four indictments in election cases were found. It is not believed that any were found in connection with the Krup case.

GIVES $100,000 TO COLLEGE.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 17.—President Warfield, of Lafayette College, announced to-day that the college had received a gift of $100,000 from Ralph Voorhees, of Clinton, N. J. This gift is to form a part of the fund being raised for the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the college. Further announcement of other gifts being the total amount of the fund already raised is expected.

THIEF IN BOX SMUGGLED INTO A WAREHOUSE

But Laden with Plunder He Is Captured Before Getting Out.

HE CAME BY EXPRESS.

Delivered in Heavy Packing Case Fastened with a Padlock.

Snuggled away in a huge wooden box, a burglar was smuggled into the warehouse of the Security Silk Storage Company at No. 213 Spring street last night. Pervading and unobtrusive, but laden with loot, he was hauled out ignominiously to-day after his presence had been discovered by a porter.

A little while later the detective nabbed his partner.

The Security Storage Company occupies a five-story building, and to this, late yesterday came an expressman, bringing two packing cases, stoutly made with lids, securely fastened with padlocks.

Stored "Over Night."

The expressman said he had been ordered to deliver the two wooden boxes for storage over night. He had been told that they contained valuable and firm merchandise, he said.

Just as a porter happened to be passing the boxes when he noticed an unusually large knot-hole in a plank of the side of one and saw a hat inside.

The porter ran downstairs and called the manager, who called in Policeman Coleman, of the MacDougal street station.

Coleman went upstairs, knocked the cover off the box and from its depths hauled out a very hot, very melancholy-looking chap. He said he was John Smith, twenty-eight years old, a lodger at the Union Lodging-House on the Bowers.

Grease and Whiskey.

The prisoner had with him a loaf of bread, partly nibbled, a bottle of whiskey, partly emptied, a new revolver and a complete set of burglar's tools, including an electric lantern.

He also had with him in the box a lot of bits of silk. His quarters were lined with bags of sawdust.

Smith owned up. He said he had uncovered the hinges of the lid, they were on the inside, and had gathered up the silk from a heap near by.

The other box was to have been filled, too, but he got scared, crawled back and screwed the lid on again.

Later an expressman came for the boxes. He was followed to Second street and the Bowers, where detective Coleman, who had hired the expressman to go for the making cases.

Arnold is twenty-eight years old, he said he came out at the expressman's lodging-house, in Prince street, near the Bowers. Arnold, who has a prison record, would not talk, but Smith made a full confession.

Smith Owns Up.

"You've got the goods on me," he said to Capt. Russell, of the MacDougal street station, who took charge of the case. "I was fastened up in the box yesterday afternoon, and I was beginning to get mighty tired of being there. If the boxes had been sent back to my partner, like he figured on, he would have let me out, and then we were going to sell the silk and duck and breathe easy enough through holes that we bored in the sides, but I got scared."

The expressman who called for the boxes to-day was not the same who brought them in last spring. The two had sent out a storeman had given him the commission. At Capt. Russell's direction the two boxes were loaded into his wagon and the expressman drove to the appointed place. Russell, with three of his detectives followed, Gely, Tiersman and Laughlin, the detectives.

"That's the guy who hired me to bring the boxes," said the expressman. "Arnold would not talk even when he confronted Smith at Police Headquarters. The books show that he finished his sentence last spring. The two prisoners were sent to the Tombs Court for arraignment this afternoon. They are lucky-looking chaps, both neatly dressed. Smith had bruises on his knees and elbows to show for his experience."

CITY BUDGET APPROVED.

Albion's Authorized Expenditure of $110,000,000 Next Year.

The Republican minority of the Board of Aldermen made an effort to-day at a special meeting of the Board to prevent the adoption of the $110,000,000 budget which the members were called together to pass.

Alderman Meyer, in speaking on the subject, said the budget should not be adopted at this time because in view of the great depression it is possible that the present administration will not be able to carry it out.

Sullivan, who presided, said that the budget was a necessary one and that it should be adopted.

DEPEW LOSES HIS MEMORY ON DOG FUNDS

Can't Explain Letters in Which "Our Friend" Makes Demands.

WRITTEN BY NICHOLS.

Mysterious Stranger Was a Man Up the River Who "Wanted to Know."

United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew was peremptorily recalled before the Legislature Insurance Committee this afternoon to explain suspicious discoveries made in the "yellow dog" accounts of the Equitable Life. The Senator failed to explain and when he left the witness stand was in a sad state of mental agitation.

Two letters were handed to the Senator by Inquirer Hughes. One of these letters was dated Dec. 10, 1898, the other Dec. 24, 1899. They were addressed "My Dear Depew" and "My Dear Senator" respectively. They were signed by John A. Nichols, who received $1,000 a year for many years for "legal services" to the Equitable Life. The letters were as follows:

The Friend "Up the River."

"New York, Dec. 10, 1898.

"My dear Depew: My friend who usually gets around at this time of the year has written me several letters to which I have not replied. He now writes that he will be here Monday or Tuesday and desires to have me help him in a matter. What shall I say? Faithfully yours,

JOHN A. NICHOLS.

"New York, Dec. 24, 1899.

"My dear Senator: Our friend up the river has been very anxious of late and wants to know you know. Don't care a hang, etc. and etc. As soon as you can conveniently say, will you kindly advise me.

"Wishing you all the good things of life in this holiday season. I am, as ever yours,

JOHN A. NICHOLS.

"To Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, New York City."

Depew's Hand Trembles.

Senator Depew's hands trembled as he held those sheets of writing up to his failing eyes. The ruddy hue which has ever been his pride had fled from his cheeks. He tried to wet his dried lips with his tongue again and again.

"I don't recall who 'our friend' was," he said in a cracked voice.

The depew letter discovery had come out a little examination of S. S. McCurdy, assistant registrar of the Equitable Life.

Q. Will you kindly explain what the relation of John A. Nichols was to the Equitable Life? A. He was retained by the Equitable at different times.

Q. Do you know to whom the letter refers? A. I do not.

Q. Reference is made to some one who "usually gets around at this time of the year." (Laughter) Does that refresh your recollections? A. It does not refresh my recollection as to his name. I knew something about it at the time and passed the letter on the executive.

ODELL NOT PAID TO "DOWN" BLACK

His Counsel Denies Story About Reasons for Refunding of $75,000.

Hoadley, Lauterbach & Johnson in a communication to The Evening World dated Nov. 17 say:

"In your evening edition of yesterday (Thursday, Nov. 16) there appears an article 'Odell Got $75,000 to Down Black,' and the article proceeds to give currency to a statement said to have been made by others in accordance with this headline.

"There is no truth whatever in this statement, the money referred to having been paid as partial reimbursement to Gov. Odell by the Mercantile Trust Co. against which a suit had been pending for some time and was about to be tried, a very much larger loss than that sum having been sustained by the Governor, owing, as he alleged, to a violation of the duties of that company to him as a subscriber to what is known as the 'Shipbuilding Bonds'.

The Evening World is glad to publish the official denial on behalf of Gov. Odell of the truth of the charges made against him.

PRINCE LOUIS AT HORSE SHOW AGAIN

The Royal Visitor Was Accompanied by Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

Prince Louis of Battenberg dropped in on the Horse Show this afternoon so quietly and unobtrusively that he had been seated in the A. J. Cassatt box, No. 88, in the very center of the arena, on the north side of the Garden, for nearly an hour before any of the great throng attending the show had any idea of his presence.

The Prince and his nephew, Prince Alexander, arrived at the Madison square entrance to the Garden at 3:30, nearly an hour before he was expected to arrive. Detective Sergeant Funston and several Central Office men were on hand as a personal body guard. The two royalties were dressed in black frock coats and silk hats. Both carried big, gold-headed canes.

The little party went immediately to the A. J. Cassatt box, where they were received by Miss Elsie Cassatt. The two princes and Mr. Astor chatted and watched the showing of the fourteen tandems in Class 3 for fully half an hour before any of the curious throng on the promenade had any idea of his presence.

When the news did begin to buzz about there was a mild stampede in the direction of the Cassatt box. Crowd Annoys Prince.

The press of gaping men and women soon became an annoying detail. Prince Louis and Miss Cassatt soon left the box and mixed in the crowd on the promenade. The body guard of detectives marched behind them, presenting a barrier to those who pressed behind and endeavored to climb upon one another's backs to get a better view of the prince. Louis only remained in the Garden an hour, as he had an engagement with Dr. Daly, of No. 30 West Thirty-ninth street, at 4 o'clock, to have his teeth attended to.

He had been announced that he was being dined and fêted at such a momentous occasion that he feared that he would need to attach a dentist to his staff. The Prince made but one round of the promenade with Miss Cassatt, stopping at the Joseph E. Widener box and chatting for a few minutes with Mrs. Widener. After his walk about the arena he returned to the A. J. Cassatt box and remained there for a quarter of eight.

RESCUE TO ORDER FOR MOVING PICTURE MAN

Jennie Bartlett in the Role of Heroine and Connelly the Hero.

The press agent of the Patrons of the Benevolent Association, which is to give a benefit entertainment and moving picture show at the Grand Central Palace on Dec. 3, got busy this afternoon at the Twenty-fourth street East River building. Two weeks ago he arranged the rescue by a policeman of a young woman from the back of a runaway horse in Central Park, which came near being a tragedy. It was a real runaway, and the moving picture artist was on hand. To-day it was the rescue of a woman, bent on suicide, from the cold waters of the East River. The picture playman was Miss Jennie Bartlett, of No. 208 East Thirtieth street, who played the role of would-be suicide. Fair-haired, West Connolly, of the Health Department police squad, went over after her. Policeman McMahon, of the East Forty-first street station, threw Connolly's rope and dragged him and Miss Bartlett ashore. A moment later an ambulance from Bellevue dashed up. Miss Bartlett was bundled into it and away she was taken, but not to the hospital, she was driven to her home, where she would land dry clothing.

BENNINGS RACE TRACK, Nov. 17.—There was fine racing weather at Benning this afternoon and there was an excellent attendance in spite of the few attractions on the card. To Washingtonians, however, an animal with four legs, a mane and a tail is a horse and two or four or six horses make a race. And there are bookmakers ready to wager that the winner of the race cannot be picked. That is all the Washingtonians want. He is a small bettor but he gets his thrill just the same as the thousand-dollar man with a big chunk of the suburban.

Washington attendance strikes an average and keeps well to it throughout the meeting, for the Capital City player arranges his bank roll so that it will last the fifteen days' racing.

JACK TARS FIGHT IT OUT TO-NIGHT

British and Yankee Sailor Champions to Scrap at Sharkey's Club.

The International boxing bouts between the heavyweight, middleweight and lightweight champions of the British and Yankee fleets will come off to-night in Tom Sharkey's Club. They will be only three-round affairs, as the authorities refused to allow finish fights.

"Three rounds is long enough between sailors," said Sharkey at four o'clock this afternoon.

Sharkey will throw the bouts himself. "They won't need any more," he said.

The British heavyweight champion, John King, of the Drake, came ashore easy to-day, and is now asleep in a room near Sharkey's club, while a hundred or so of his mates keep watch below.

The American heavyweight boxer may be "Kid" Collins, or another scrapper named Harris. All the arrangements had to be made quickly for fear the two squadrons would be left without men enough left for an anchor watch. The middle and heavyweight men are all ashore, but will be kept under cover until 9 o'clock to-night.

NASHVILLE WINNERS.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 17.—The races here to-day resulted as follows:

CZAR'S ARMY RISES IN REVOLT AND HOT BATTLE IS FOUGHT

Many Killed and Wounded in Widespread Uprising in Manchuria, and Forty-two Officers Shot for Participation in the Conspiracy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17.—6.30 P. M.—According to a report a mutiny has occurred in the Manchurian army. It is stated that the Czar has received a despatch from Gen. Linevitch telling him of a revolt among the troops, which was only suppressed after a regular fight, in which many soldiers were killed or wounded.

Forty-two officers are declared to have been shot for participation in the conspiracy.

Officials of the War Office will not confirm the news.

PAINTER KILLED BY A LIVE WIRE

Shocked to Death While at Work on "L" Structure in Brooklyn.

Andrew Murphy, a painter at work on the "L" structure of the B. R. T. in Union street, near Fatchen avenue, this afternoon accidentally placed his hand upon a live wire. He was shocked to death instantly and fell back dead upon the ground.

Another workman grabbed the body just as it was falling off into the street in the path of an approaching trolley car. It was lowered to the ground with ropes and taken to the Herbert Street Station.

The wire that Murphy touched conveyed the electric current and is hanging directly under the "L" structure. The incident had been worked away by contact with one of the pillars.

YOUNG WOMAN TRIES TO END LIFE BY GAS.

A handsome woman of twenty-five, known as Elinor M. Little, to-day tried to kill herself by inhaling gas in her room at No. 49 West Ninety-fourth street. She left a note to the landlady, saying she "had to do it and was sorry."

It is believed the young woman comes from a well-to-do family in Massachusetts. She arrived at the house two weeks ago.

The girl's actions aroused the suspicion of Louis M. Hegeman, the landlady, but as she paid her rent regularly, he did not take any notice. Miss Little told him she was a trained nurse out of employment.

A maid smelled gas issuing from her room at noon to-day, and Policeman Dunn forced the door and found the girl, fully dressed and unconscious on the bed. The note she addressed to Mr. Hegeman was given to the police, who declined to disclose its full contents.

Starving Peasants Riot.

Count Witte's attempt to negotiate directly with the strike leaders has come to naught, although he offered concessions in the case of the Cronstadt mutineers in the event of their being continued to exist.

The Imperial Ukase on the land question, issued to-day, although it wipes out about $40,000,000 of the peasants' arrears of debt, which under ordinary circumstances might have been received with joy, is another disappointment. The promises of additional lands are but a bait to calm the starving peasants, who, in the valleys of the Don and Volga, are again marching, pillaging, burning and murdering.

DINER DENIES MURDER OF CHILD.

Gustav Dirser, who is on trial accused of the murder of two-year-old Gertrude Hyland, the daughter of his common-law wife, went on the witness stand late this afternoon in his own defense. He denied the murder and declared that the child was killed by accidentally striking her head against a desk.
